

Arthur Weasley

---

Mr. Weasley liked Harry to sit next to him at the dinner table so that he could bombard him with questions about life with Muggles, asking him to explain how things like plugs and the postal service worked.

“Fascinating!” he would say as Harry talked him through using a telephone. “Ingenious, really, how many ways Muggles have found of getting along without magic.”
Chamber of Secrets, pg. 42-43

“Simply fabulous,” he whispered, indicating the automatic ticket machines. “Wonderfully ingenious.”

“They’re out of order,” said Harry, pointing at the sign.

“Yes, but even so . . . ” said Mr. Weasley, beaming fondly at them.

Order of the Phoenix, pg. 124

---

ONLINE RESOURCES

The library subscribes to over 300 databases for students to use. These databases are full of articles, videos, music, maps, and foreign language lessons that are not freely available through the Muggle-invented Google. Those ingenious students who take advantage of these resources find more treasure than a Gringotts vault can hold.

Discover your house,
start here! —▶

bit.ly/mckay-magic